DENNIS GIVES OUT INTERVIEW

Says Action of Grand Jury in Giving Him Clean Bill Caused no Surprise.

MAY RUN FOR OFFICE AGAIN

States That Rushville is Clean City Is Going to "Clean up" Shelbyville.

The grand jury gave Prosecutor Dennis O'Neil a clean bill and he will continue in office. The result of the grand jury's investigation and conclusion caused no surprise to Mr. O'Neil. "I expected to get a clean bill," said Dennis, "and the result caused no surprise."

Numerous inquiries have been made as to why I never conducted the grand jury this term of court," said Mr. O'Neil, today, "and I desire to correct any wrong impressions. I turned over the grand jury to Wallace Morgan because I expected to be called any time by the death of my father and did not desire to start with the work and have to quit. Now Mr. Morgan is a great temperance advocate and as conclusive proof that the city is clean, he or the grand jury did not find any blind tigers or gambling."

Continuing Mr. O'Neil said: "Since recovering my health, I have been getting up early in the morning to see that the saloon keepers did not break the law. In this manner I see the nature of the people who visit these places early in the day and before the police are out on duty. For this reason I know there is no gambling going on here because the games break up early in the morning and I would see the men. I have stopped gambling, but did not catch the offenders. They stopped when I told them."

"The reason I pulled the slot machine owners was because the small boy learns the value of cards in a poker hand and it is a bad influence. I say right here that the pool room owners must not let minors loaf in their places. The reason I say this is because it costs the small boy too much money for his pleasure."

"Now there is one other thing I wish explained. That is the dog tax question. I never received a penny of dog tax money. I inquired of Mayor Black and Squire Kratzer and found that Mr. Kratzer has collected five dollars which he will turn over at the proper time. I paid for twenty-six typewritten dog tax affidavits, even one against my own step-son, and no one would sign them. I will no because I do not know if any of the men harbored a dog on March 1 last. All those affidavits are against 'dead ones' and I am not hunting 'dead ones'."

"Dennis, will you run for office again?" he was asked.

"I will tell you when the psychological moment comes."

"What do you mean by that?"

"I mean when the bases are full and the score stands 3 to 0 against the home team and they call Dennis to the bat. You hear a whack, and the ball takes wings in flight over the head of the center-fielder and over the fence. The bleachers throw their $5 hats into the air and carry me from the field."

"Dennis, do you think you will win at the end of the race?"

"If I want it who can stop me? Last year all the leading Democrats were against me. I got the Rushville delegation alone. It took 526 ballots before I was nominated. Cheney's line stood solid as a stone wall until evening. All day I stood tip-toed for the dash and when the opening came you heard a terrific crash and Dennis was sent over the line for the touch-down.

"The people should appreciate what I have done," continued Mr. O'Neil. I stayed up late at nights and almost sacrificed my health in order to rid the city of crime. At present the city is clean and men, women and even children can come here and be free from temptation. I am sorry I can not stay here to keep it so, but you see I have to go to Shelbyville to perform the same service for the mothers and fathers."

Mr. O'Neil says he will go to Shelbyville in a few days.

HOLY GRAIL INITIATION

Will Follow Banquet at St. Paul M. E. Church.

Following a banquet tomorrow evening at the St. Paul M. E. church, a class of fifty or sixty boys will be initiated into the order of the Holy Grail. The Rev. Perry Powell of Tipton, founder and Supreme Merlin of the Holy Grail will conduct the work. It is planned to begin the initiation promptly at seven o'clock. Several visitors from Indianapolis are expected to be present.

H. E. YOHE TO SPEAK WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Chairman of Executive Committee of Men and Religion Forward Movement Coming to Rushville.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harry E. Yohe of Indianapolis, secretary of the executive committee of the Men and Religion Forward Movement, will speak to the men of Rushville at the First Presbyterian church Wednesday evening at seven-thirty o'clock. He will discuss the various phases of the great religion movement that is sweeping the whole continent for possibly a half an hour when the meeting will be resolved into a discussion of the subject and men of the audience will be allowed to ask any questions they desire in regard to the movement. The Men's Big Meeting quartet will sing and J. Walter Wilson will lead the general singing.

It is proposed to carry out the routine of the Men and Religion Forward Movement in Rushville as it has been done in the larger cities. The organization is all in working order here and dates for the eight day campaign and other phases of the work will be announced soon. The local movement will be brought up to a point the movement has reached in other cities in time for the conservation day which will be the same date all over North America where the Men and Religion Forward Movement is being pushed. Following that comes the five year campaign concerning which more definite announcement will be made later.

JURY FAILS TO AGREE

Hopelessly Split in McAllister-Miller $5,000 Damage Suit.

The jury in the $5,000 damage suit of Mrs. Thomas McAllister against Clyde Miller disagreed and was dismissed in the circuit court about five o'clock Saturday evening. The jury went out about nine o'clock Saturday morning. It is said that the jury was hopelessly split on the question. The jury never got so far as agreeing on the amount of damages, it being reported that four jurors stood for finding for the defendant while eight believed Mrs. McAllister should have damages.

An effort will be made Wednesday afternoon by the women of the St. Paul M. E. church to organize a Foreign Mission society at a meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. W. H. Wylie. Mrs. John E. Higdon of Indianapolis will deliver an address on "Woman's Work For Women in Foreign Lands." An interesting program has been arranged including a paper by Mrs. Charles Warren Fairbanks, which will be read by Mrs. James E. Watson. All of the women of the church are invited and it is hoped to have a large crowd as the question of forming a Mission Society will be discussed.

SCHOOL BUILDING CATCHES ON FIRE

Graham High School is Slightly Damaged When Blaze Starts in Waste Paper.

ORIGIN IS VERY UNCERTAIN

Discovery Made Soon After Fire Got Start Else New Building Would Have Been Destroyed.

It is estimated that if the fire at the Graham high school building last night had had twenty minutes more of a start, the building would have been in ruins this morning. The blaze started in the boiler room and it was somewhat of a miracle that it was ever discovered. The fire company found it a rather stubborn fire to fight, and one to which it was hard to get. The damage to the building will probably not amount to over one hundred dollars.

The origin of the fire is somewhat of a mystery. Whether it was the work of an incendiary or a tiny mouse will never be known. The former theory is practically exploded by the fact that no doors were found open and the person who might have started the fire would not have had time to get away before the fire was discovered.

The fire started in a pile of waste paper which had been left in the boiler room to start a fire this morning. It spread to the partition between the boiler room and burned that way. A pile of cobs which was used for kindling also caught on fire. The story told last night that the coal was afire was incorrect, as school authorities say the fire never reached the coal. There was only a small amount in the bin.

School authorities are inclined to believe the blaze was caused by a mouse. They say that matches are often found on the floors of the school building and in the waste paper baskets and that one might have been carried to the boiler room.

Martin Carroll, a former high school student, living at 235 East Sixth street, was on his way home when he discovered the fire. He thought he heard his name called out and looked back. He noted the glow of the school building furnace through the basement window and thought it brighter than usual. He ran over to the window and found it was red hot, and turned in the alarm. Grant Gregg, who lives just across Seventh street from the building, broke the glass in the front door and was the first one to reach the boiler room where the fire was.

The fire company experienced some difficulty in putting out the fire as it

JURORS SOUNDS WARNING NOTE

Grand Jury Urges Repair of Court House and Improvement of County Poor Asylum.

IN MAKING FINAL REPORT

Finds That Jail is Being Skillfully Cared For—in Session Ten Days.

In its final report, the grand jury, which was dismissed finally by Judge Blair late Saturday afternoon, sounds a note of warning in regard to the court house and the county poor asylum. It is urgent in its requests that the court house be put in better repair and that the county house be made more modern and sanitary. The report says the jail was found in excellent condition. The grand jury was in session ten days. Following is the report of the jury in full.

We, the undersigned grand jury for the February term of the Rush circuit court, respectfully report to the court that pursuant to the court's instructions we visited the various institutions belonging to the county and report as to their condition as follows:

We found the inmates of the poor farm to be very old and infirm, but found them well fed and clothed. We found the building in a deplorable condition physically and unfit absolutely for the purpose of caring for the inmates. We found the women's quarters upstairs, the stairway there to being very narrow and steep and such that it is almost impossible for the women to ascend and descend without assistance, to our mind a very grave condition in case of fire.

We find it necessary for these women to climb down this narrow staircase and go out of doors and into a closet on the outside of the building to answer calls of nature.

We find no hot water system for bathing and no water to flush closets and no sanitary sewers of any kind; we find it necessary for all the inmates, both men and women, to go out of doors and across stone floor and walls to go to the dining room. At the time we were there this walk was icy and dangerous. We find linoleum needed on the dining room floor. We found the barns, fencing, in good condition, and the live stock properly cared for and respectfully suggest to the county council and board of commissioners, it is our opinion that Rush county should have a modern building to care for its unfortunate. One in which at least their comfort could be secured.

We find no fault with the superintendent, John W. Hume and his wife and believe that they themselves are doing all they can to attend to and look after the inmates properly, and are kind and patient with them. And in conclusion say, let us tax payers do without a few bridges and new gravel roads and pay some attention to this old fire truck in which the county's unfortunate are housed.

We, the grand jury have examined the court house and report as follows: We find evidence of neglect, the walls dirty, covered with soot and dust; we find especially the court room ceiling and walls stained from water which has melted the plastering, making it very unsightly. We find from examination various portions of the building used by various persons that have no legal right thereto; we find numerous pass keys to the various rooms in the building in the hands of persons not lawfully entitled thereto. We find the heating system expensive and ill adapted to the purposes intended. In other words we find a very costly building being permitted to become dirty and defamed and not having the proper care. It being our opinion that a building that cost the tax payers of Rush county over a third of a million dollars which is and should be an ornament to the city of Rushville and the pride of the county, should be given the attention and care required to keep the same as it should be kept.

We recommend to the county council and the board of commissioners that the condition of the court house be given their immediate attention. We believe it to be the best of economy to carefully preserve our property. As to the jail we find it in good condition and carefully and skillfully cared for.

OWLS ORGANIZER RETURNS TO CITY

Is Surprised to Learn That His Absence Caused so Much Alarm Especially With Lewis.

SAYS ACCOUNTS ARE SETTLED

C. H. Henslee, organizer of the Owls lodge, returned to this city Saturday evening as was expected by members of the order. Henslee was very much surprised to learn that his leaving the city had caused alarm to Charles Lewis, who loaned him $95. The members here were confident he would return and the trouble between Henslee and Lewis was "squared." Henslee lives in Indianapolis and he stated today that he had gone home for a visit. "The next time I leave the city I'll let everyone know before hand," said he. He stated that he paid Mrs. Lewis the board bill and the difficulty between Lewis and himself had been settled. According to the police the money had not been paid at 3:45 o'clock this afternoon.

POSTPONE LIQUOR LICENSE ACTION

Commissioners Decide to Hear Four Petitions For Renewals a Week From Today.

KESSLER DRAIN TOMORROW

The county commissioners in regular session today postponed action on liquor license renewals until one week from today. The licenses of James McCormie, O'Neil & Barrett, James Smith and Clyde Miller will expire one week from next Wednesday. It is understood they will ask for renewals. Licenses of Will Price and August Roth expire next month.

The report of the grand jury which recommended improvement of the court house and county poor asylum was presented to the commissioners this afternoon. No comment on the report was made.

The Kessler drain and the petition for a road in Orange township will come before the commissioners tomorrow. Regular claims were allowed today.

James Higgs has been appointed fireman at the county heating plant to succeed George Conrad who resigned.

LOCAL MEN GO FOR MEETING

Officers of Retail Merchants Association Leave For Brookville to Attend I. & C. Gathering.

PRES. C. L. HENRY TO SPEAK

Local boosters are prepared to go After Free Right-of-Way For Line.

Anthony Schrichte, president, and Will O. Feudner, secretary, of the Rushville Retail Merchants Association, left this afternoon for Brookville to attend the meeting of business men and other interested men which will be held there tonight to further the interests of the I. & C. extension to Cincinnati from this city by way of Brookville.

It was expected that President Charles L. Henry and at least two directors of the line would attend the meeting tonight. Mr. Henry has consented to talk and it is presumed that he will reiterate the statements made here in regard to the extension.

Mr. Henry has made it clear that the line will not be extended over a route where free right-of-way can not be obtained. The Brookville and Rushville men who want the line are out after the free right-of-way. The meeting tonight is to prove that Brookville is after the line for all that it is worth and that that city expects to get it if there is any known means to do so.

The local boosters have made blue prints of the section of the county through which the proposed route will pass. They show exactly how the line would cut through every farm an indicates the amount of land which the right-of-way will require. Thus armed men in favor of the extension will confer with farmers owning land in this district and see how they regard the I. & C. extension.

As Mr. Henry expressed it at the meeting with Brookville citizens here two weeks ago, there is no doubt but what the traction line would increase the value of any farm by several dollars an acre. Men asking for a free right-of-way will have this argument in their favor as it has been proved by actual experience that traction lines do increase the value of land.

It is urged that farmers along the proposed route who favor the extension confer with their neighbors about the route and show them the value of such an improvement. It is thought neighbors who want the traction line can do more good than men who are not so well acquainted with farmers who would be vitally affected.

Today Mr. Henry expected to complete the route to be surveyed as far as Harrison, Ohio. It will be possible after today to tell just how many and what farms will be touched by the proposed route. It is now time for all interested in the line to work toward the desired end, a free right-of-way, in order to insure the benefits for Rush county.

PAPER BAG COOKING

Great System Perfected by M. Soyer, Famous London Chef.

PERFECT ROAST MUTTON.

By Martha McCulloch Williams. Writing so much of cakes and sweets and formal dinners that can be cooked in paper bags has brought me almost to the pass where I feel suffocated of such fare. It has made me wonder, too, if my readers will not be likewise glad to get back to home-fare, at least for one day, and that fare possibly perfect roast mutton.

Choose a saddle, if you want the very best. Buy it a day ahead of the cooking, have the rib-ends cut short and neatly rounded, wash it quickly, salt it very, very lightly, brush over with melted butter and vinegar—a teaspoonful of each mixed—and keep in a cool, airy place until ready for cooking. If it is hanging outside, it should be well wrapped in damp cheese cloth and hence will need no more washing when brought in for cooking. Grease a bag that will be a loose fit, very thickly, clarified drippings answering for this better than butter. Sprinkle fine herbs in powder lightly over the meat, also a very little more salt, red and black pepper, and a few drops of tabasco, chili vinegar or Worcester-shire sauce. Melt a teaspoonful of tart jelly, currant or crabapple, in a spoonful of claret, lemon juice or vinegar, add a teaspoonful of good butter, mix well, and brush the meat well over with the mixture. Save any remainder for the gravy later on. Slice an onion very thin and lay upon top of the meat. Place it in your greased bag with a little more butter, seal, cook in hot oven five to seven minutes, then slack heat half and finish the cooking, allowing eighteen to twenty minutes to the pound.

Layer beef is hearty, tasteful and not too costly. Get as much round meat as you need, have it cut in thin slices and the slices divided lengthwise into strips. Make a square or oblong mold from a paper bag, butter it well, after clipping the corners firmly, lay upon the bottom either toasted breadcrumbs or thinly sliced potatoes and onions, dot with butter and cover with a layer of beef, cut to fit the mold neatly, and seasoned with salt and pepper. Butter the meat on both sides if you like things very rich. Repeat the layers until the mold is full, then pour over a little milk and enough tomato catsup to moisten the upper layer. Dot with bits of butter. Set the mold inside a greased bag, put on trivet in the oven, using either upper or lower shelf, and cook thoroughly, allowing twenty minutes to the pound.

Liver and bacon are not beyond the paper bag. Slice the liver thin, season it as for frying, put it in a well greased bag, lay bacon slices all over it, seal and cook for fifteen minutes in a hot oven; ten after slackening heat. Keep the heat full five minutes longer if you like it very crisp.

CUTLETS FOR THE NURSERY.

By Nicolas Soyer, Chef of Brooks' Club, London.

Every mother is aware of the nourishing properties of barley, but not every child can be got to take the barley in the shape of porridge. The annexed recipe solves the difficulty by giving the barley at dinner instead of at breakfast time.

Soak four ounces thoroughly washed pearl barley for twenty-four hours. Have ready a well greased bag, six small peeled whole onions (select those about the size of a tangerine), and the requisite number of cutlets. Free the cutlets from all but the smallest quantity of fat, dust them with salt and place them in the bag. Add to them the onions and the barley, salt to taste, and if any of the water in which the barley was soaked remains, add this also. If not, add half a pint of chicken stock. Fold and clip the bag, place on broiler and cook gently in only moderately hot oven for an hour and a half.

Veal can also be cooked this way, and for invalids the dish can be most highly recommended, as it contains nothing to upset the most delicate stomach.

This dish should be selected when there has been roast fowl the day before, as the stock can be made from the cooked carcass of the fowl, as follows: Break up the carcass into small pieces. Add any pieces of skin remaining, an onion stuck with a clove, a tiny bit of mace, and a good-sized sprig of well washed parsley. Add rather more than half pint of water. Bring to the boil, then simmer very slowly, and do not let it boil away or reduce at all for three-quarters of an hour. Strain off. Add salt to taste.

Cutlets à la Indienne: For those who like hot things the following may be recommended: Take a teaspoonful of salted flour, mix with it thoroughly a heaped, large teaspoonful of good curry powder—two if liked. Grease a bag very thoroughly. Have ready four to six cutlets trimmed as directed above. Dust these with the flour, put them into the bag and add to them a heaped dessert spoonful of finely chopped spring onions and half a pint of chicken or other well flavored stock. Fold and cook gently for three-quarters of an hour.

FOREIGN TROOPS NOW ON GUARD

Chinese Capital Patrolled By the Powers.

IT HAD THE DESIRED EFFECT

This Show of Force on the Part of the Hated "Foreign Devils," Whose Control of Peking in 1900 Has Not Been Forgotten There, Had a Quieting Influence on the Restless Element That Had Been Looting and Burning.

Peking, March 4.—American, French and British reinforcements for the legation guard arrived here Sunday and more are on the way. A detachment of legation guards to the number of 700 paraded the streets during the afternoon. The display was intended for a moral effect on the restless element. It evidently had the desired effect. There was no incident of any kind during the progress of the procession. Four British regiments are on the way from Hong Kong, and Japanese reinforcements are also coming.

The summary beheading of looters caught here continues, and it appears to be extremely efficacious in checking the sacking of stores and shops. The city is wonderfully quiet. A battalion of American infantry is guarding the foreign mission.

A telegram from Peking says some missionaries were murdered during the riots there. The movement at Peking is largely against foreigners.

The effect the mutiny of the troops and the rioting here on the reorganizing of the nation is causing serious anxiety. Some Chinese are inclined to take a pessimistic view of the outlook. On the other hand some think it may have the result of causing the southern republicans to join President Yuan. The Nanking delegates, who are still here, intend to send four of their number back to report on the attitude of the powers toward the new government, and also to urge Sun Yat Sen and his colleagues to come to Peking and co-operate with Yuan Shih Kai in hastening the establishment of a strong government. The members of the diplomatic corps, to whom all the leaders are inclined to listen, favor such action.

AT TIEN TSIN

Coast City Has Repetition of Peking's Experience.

Tien Tsin, March 4.—Conditions here are worse than can be described, with the mobs pillaging the native city, incendiary rampent and an attack expected by the mutinous soldiers from Peking. The pillaging, which began in the native city, extended to the foreign quarter, but has now ceased. A German doctor was killed during the rioting while rescuing German women. The consular body met and decided to place everything in the hands of the military commanders, as it is feared that the foreign settlements will be attacked. Reports from Peking say the conditions there are alarming. A detachment of American troops arrived at Peking Sunday and 200 French soldiers and 150 British infantry left here for the capital.

Peking has been burned and looted by the Chinese soldiers of the Sixth division, who are now marching on Peking. The authorities have torn up a portion of the Peking & Hankow railway in an effort to impede their progress.

There has been some further incendiary and shooting at Peking, but everything is quiet at the foreign concessions at the capital.

Fires are raging in Tien Tsin on both sides of the river. The Peking mutineers are reported to be nearing the city, and at last accounts were only three miles from the native city, where the pillaging is still going on.

A battalion of the Inniskillin dragoons which was sent from Tien Tsin to Fengtai arrived at the latter place Sunday afternoon. When they reached the village where the conditions were reported to be alarming, the commander of the dragoons, Colonel Hancock, sent an ultimatum to the Chinese commander whose troops occupy the south side of the railway, to evacuate his position at once.

Uncle Sam Is Prepared.

Washington, March 4.—Upon the status of the Chinese situation today will depend whether more troops shall be rushed from Manilla to Tien Tsin for concerted action with troops of the European powers in the protection of the railway leading from Peking to Tien Tsin, and to safeguard the lives of foreigners in the imperial capital city itself.

Approximately 8,000 infantry and cavalry are available in the Philippines to be sent on short notice to China, and a transport is being held at Manilla in readiness to take a regiment aboard at once in case the situation should appear to warrant.

Shanghai Not Alarmed.

Shanghai, March 4.—The news of the trouble at Peking has not caused any excitement among the republican leaders here. They attribute the mutiny to the fear on the part of the troops that they were about to be dismissed without any pay. The Chinese newspapers suggest that the trouble was due to the order compelling the soldiers to cut off their queues.

NO REASON FOR IT

When Rushville Citizens Show the Way.

There can be no just reason why any reader of this will continue to suffer the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the dangers of serious kidney ills when relief is so near at hand and the most positive proof given that these ills can be cured. Read what a Rushville citizen says:

Mrs. W. A. Wylie, 824 North Arthur street, Rushville, Ind., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have been used in our family and we have found them to be a splendid remedy for kidney complaint. A member of our family suffered from attacks of backache for several years, the trouble being caused by disordered kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to our attention and thinking they might prove of benefit, we procured a supply at F. B. Johnson & Co.'s Drug Store. The use of two boxes entirely relieved the backache and strengthened the kidneys. I publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills at that time and I still take pleasure in saying a good word for them."

EUROPE IS WITH THE PRESIDENT

Foreign Diplomats Agree With Hands Off Mexico Policy.

EXPRESSIONS OF SATISFACTION

Both France and Germany Have Given Their Indorsement of the Action of Mr. Taft in Issuing a Proclamation of Warning in Connection With Mexico's Internal Affairs and Other Similar Expressions Are Looked For.

Washington, March 4.—Foreign diplomats in Washington expressed interest in the action of President Taft in issuing a proclamation of warning to Americans and others in the United States and to Americans in Mexico to keep their fingers out of internal affairs in Mexico. It is understood that this action of the administration has the indorsement of the Washington representatives of European powers interested, and doubtless communications to this effect will be received by the state department from the powers themselves. Ambassador Jusserand of France and the counsellor of the German embassy, to whom Acting Secretary Wilson explained the action in person, expressed satisfaction, and they at once communicated with their governments.

Already there have been some attacks on Americans, and these are being carefully investigated. So far it does not develop, however, that they were attacked as Americans, but have simply fallen victims along with other foreigners and Mexicans of robber bands.

Conditions in Tlaxacala, Puebla, Vera Cruz and Tamaulipas seem to be worse, and in Morelos and Guerrero the situation appears unchanged. The states of Chihuahua and Durango appear to be under rebel control.

NEW GOLD FIELD

Prospectors in Alaska Cheered by Recent Developments.

Tacoma, Wash., March 4.—Alaska now has another great new placer gold district with good pay found over an area twenty miles wide, ranging from two to seven feet deep. The new Aniak diggings will become the first permanent camp in the great Kuskokwim valley. In the native language "Aniak" means "in and out." The miners declare the prospects uncovered last fall and this winter the best of any ever discovered in Alaska. The tributary streams are described as natural sluice boxes. Gravel is unfrozen and easy to work. It is shallow and runs over large areas, 58 to 65 cents in coarse gold per square foot on bedrock. On benches a dollar per hour can be obtained with crude rockers.

Aniak river enters Kuskokwim river eighty-eight miles below Georgetown, and 165 miles above Bethel. Aniak is distinguished for its right angle bends and six-mile current. Two old Russian winter trails, level and well wooded, lead from Kuskokwim river.

Other minerals found in that region are silver, galena, zinc, blend, copper, nickel, cobalt, tin, antimony, gray copper, bismuth, cinnabar, sulphur, coal and oil. Near Georgetown two big cinnabar quicksilver mines are successfully operated.

Women Give Jailers Trouble.

London, March 4.—More than one hundred suffragettes who are under remand in Holloway jail, rioted in the exercise yard Sunday. The warders had great difficulty in getting them back into their cells, where they smashed the windows and waved their handkerchiefs through the breaches they created. They also sang the "Marseillaise" and shouted "Votes for women" at the top of their voices.

Put It Off Awhile.

Increase of Consumers Over Producers Makes Living High

"Well," said an old resident of Rushville, this morning, "you are quite right when you say the cost of living is one of the most serious problems of the day. Nearly everyone recognizes this fact now and the complaints about high prices are too ordinary to excite more than passing comment.

"It is not a matter of tariff, as some people believe, because living is getting higher in all of the nations of the world. The condition is true everywhere and economists everywhere are trying to solve the problem of the cause. The government of England, France and Germany have had committees investigating the causes for a year or more and President Taft's recommendations along this line are well known to every American citizen.

"The French committee has made a partial report and concludes that the rise in prices in that country, starting in 1887, is due to the lessening of the rural property and growth of the cities. President Taft has pointed out in a message to congress that in spite of investigations on an international plane, no results are arrived at for the reason that no two countries yet estimate the prices on the same basis and that for this reason no helpful comparisons can be made.

"But it occurs to me that this increase in prices may be due in part to more simple reasons than we are able to believe. Take the city of Rushville and other towns in the same class. What do we find? Why conditions are much different than they were twenty years ago. We can recognize it here as well as elsewhere. There is no use going away into political economy to solve all these problems. The answer for some of them is much nearer home.

"One cause for the increase of the cost of living for the dwellers in cities is very plain. The number of city people who partially supplied their table with food from their own city lots has become so small as to no longer be of any importance on the producing side. Twenty years ago Rushville, it is safe to say, there were at least 100 cows kept by as many private families. Some had two or three. These supplied that number of families with milk, cream and butter, and even with ice cream, cottage cheese and junkets. It was a common sight to see a boy gathering a dozen cows from different homes each morning and driving them to pasture and returning them at night.

It has been a number of years since this was done, and the expense of what was gained from this source is now thrown entirely upon the farms and the wages. At that time nearly every outlying lot of the city had its pig, which fattened from the table waste and garden truck, cost little and supplied a family with wholesome meat for the winter, and lard, sausage and other products. All these are now purchased at the meat markets by these same families, and at high prices.

"Today the city boy never sees a pig inside the city limits. So scarce have they become that a census enumerator when asked how many pigs he found in this district, said it was a curious fact that he knew of only one, and that was in a town where an ordinance forbade it to be kept. Twenty years ago most of the residents had their gardens, and during the summer months the table was largely supplied with all garden truck at a small cost for seeds and a few hours' pleasant work in the evenings. With increase of houses and cutting up of lots, the acreage devoted to this use formerly has been reduced to a negligible quantity in its value of sustaining life, with the passing of the garden an added obligation has been placed upon the farm to supply the difference.

"Another thing which is rapidly disappearing is the poultry yard, as an institution for the private family. Of course, there are still many people in Rushville who raise poultry. And the quality is much better than ever before. But the backyard broods for the ordinary family are getting away from us. Rushville used to be a poor egg market because nearly everybody raised enough eggs for home consumption. This, with the family cow and the pig, kept down family expenses. The family hen has diminished in number in about the ratio of twenty to one in the past two decades. All of which has not had a tendency to decrease the cost of living.

"The sauerkraut barrel also played its part in the domestic economy of the past. Each fall it was filled and did its part in keeping down the cost of living, exciting the appetite with its odor and aiding digestion by its wholesome acids. The sauerkraut barrel has been carried to the garbage furnaces, and the article is now bought at double what it cost to make in the home.

"Restrictive ordinances have driven the pig and cow from the city lots, increase of building has cut down the size of the gardens and the poultry yards, and lack of thrift have caused the beef and sauerkraut barrels to be abandoned. The city dweller no longer depends upon his home yard to help his pocketbook, but raises everything over the telephone. It may be easier, but it costs more; and the complaint of high prices is becoming louder each year as more of the people join the non-producing class. Multiply the change that has taken place within the last 20 years in Rushville, by the number of growing cities and towns in the United States, and then make comparison with the small increase in the food production on farms, and the result will be a startling one."

John W. Sickelsmith, Greensboro, Pa., has three children, and like most children they frequently take cold. "We have tried several kinds of cough medicine," he says, "but never have found any yet that did them as much good as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy." For sale by All Dealers.

Backache Almost Unbearable

Is an almost certain result of kidney trouble. D. Toomey, 803 E. Olive street, Bloomington, Ill., says: "I suffered with backache and pains in my kidneys which were almost unbearable.

I gave Foley Kidney Pills a good trial, and they done wonders for me. Today I can do a hard day's work and not feel the effects."

Would Take Man 85 Years to Cover All of Public Roads in United States

Even with a high-powered automobile that could keep up a pace of 90 miles a day indefinitely, it would take a man more than 65 years to cover all the public roads in the United States. A young man of twenty starting out to accomplish this tremendous task would be 85 before he had covered the last mile of public highway in this country.

After an investigation extending over many months, Logan Waller Page, Director of the Office of Public Roads, has ascertained that there are now 2,199,645 miles of public roads in the United States. The figures include all the new roads built up to the year 1909. In 1904 there were exactly 2,151,379. It is apparent, therefore, that the increased mileage of new roads within a period of about five years has been 48,266.

"The investigation just concluded," said Director Page, in an interview, "shows conclusively that the movement for the improvement of public highways has obtained a firm grip on the country. The percentage of roads which were really improved, amounted to 7.14 in 1904, while in 1909, to which year statistics are now available, the percentage was 8.66.

"It is interesting to observe the growth of improved methods in road construction. For instance, the total mileage of stone roads in 1904 was 36,818, while in 1909 it was 59,237. The total mileage of gravel roads in 1904 was 109,905, while in 1909 it was only 102,870. This decrease in gravel roads, however, was due to a reclassification of roads. Many of those reported in 1904 to be of gravel proved to be of some other substance, while exaggerations were eliminated.

"The total mileage of sand-clay, brick, bituminous-macadam and other improved roads in 1904 was 6,806, while in 1909 the mileage reached 28,372."

The Office of Public Roads has just issued a table showing the states having the largest mileage of improved roads:

	1904	1909
Indiana	23,877	24,955
Ohio	23,460	24,106
New York	5,876	12,787
Wisconsin	10,633	10,167
Kentucky	9,486	10,114
Illinois	7,924	8,914
California	8,803	8,587
Massachusetts	7,843	8,463

Beunos Aires has planted along its streets and over its parks no less than 142,000 shade trees with the last ten years only for adornment.

Cascarets Work While You Sleep

Salts, Calomel and Cathartic Pills are Violent—they act on Bowels as Pepper acts in Nostrils.

Take a Cascaret tonight and thoroughly cleanse your Liver, Stomach and Bowels, and you will surely feel great by morning. You men and women who have headache, coated tongue, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel all worn out.

Are you keeping clean inside with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the decomposed waste matter and poison from the intestines and bowels.

Remember, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. A 10-cent box from your druggist means a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Don't forget the children.

If you have trouble in getting rid of your cold you may know that you are not treating it properly. There is no reason why a cold should hang on for weeks and it will not if you take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For sale by All Dealers.

Under the circumstances Mr. Bryan will probably not need to issue any statement that he will not run for a third term.

By and by if all the relics of the Maine should be collected in one place, it might be possible to build several battleships out of them.

The income of New York's hold-up men is not so large as you might think, as the pockets of New York people are filled mostly with tradesmen's bills.

Now if Mr. Roosevelt had not got his mind set on running for president, just think how much fun he might have had in reporting the cattle shows this fall for the Outlook.

A presidential candidate wishing to be well equipped for the pending campaign needs a force of secretaries to hunt through the dictionary for a complete collection of vituperative adjectives each having a good business end.

Ridiculing Lee.

(Indianapolis Star.)

It is kind and thoughtful of Mr. Lee to warn us that the Federal office holders are about to gobble us, if we don't watch out. Only through eternal vigilance can liberty be grabbed and held on to. The Federal office holder, as we understand it, is at large, seeking whom he may devour. Should you meet up with him, gentle reader, be on guard. Do not let him rob you, by force or fraud, of your birthright or any other valuable possession concealed for the moment, on your person.

One shudders to think, moreover, how closely Mr. Lee himself came to being one of these same decoy ducks. A few short months ago the wink of an eye or the draft of a breath might have put him in the ranks of these same Federal office holders who are even now contemplating and collaborating upon we know not what deep and dark design to catch the helpless voter's pedro or get his goat or rob him of something or other dearer than life itself.

Perhaps the danger has been minimized in this way, for Mr. Lee himself is a powerful persuader. As it is now, we merely have to be on our guard against the assaults of Ed Schmidt or Elam Neal. Imagination almost quails at the task of picturing Charley Miller or Baron Rothschild compelling some mere ordinary Roosevelt man to vote for the Taft delegates. Is it possible that Mr. Lee is unnecessarily alarmed? What will these Roosevelt boomers be doing while Bob Bryson is hypnotizing them into voting for Moyer Shank?

The soul of that inspiration of Missouri genius, which has at last burst out from the Ozark mountains and spread over the land is not hard to find and feel, says the Kokomo Tribune. Who wouldn't protest against a general habit of kicking his dog? the warning given in the limpid lyric which has been made the battle song of Champ Clark's campaign is only simply loyalty to a faithful servitor. The whole country is filled with dog-owners and dog-lovers who sympathize, to the bottom of their hearts, with the cry of the Ozark mountaineer. "They gotta stop kickin' my dawg aroun'."

But why the obloquy heaped upon hounds? What is the reason for the apologetic "Makes no difference if he is a houn'"? Isn't a hound in good repute among dwellers in primitive regions of forests and mountains? All through the south hounds are bred and used to hunt foxes, rabbits, deer in certain parts, and even bears in districts where bruin can be found. In America the bloodhounds is almost distinctively a dog of the south, and there is no other section, except perhaps the plains of the newer west, where the hound is so much in evidence as he is in the south.

What is wrong with the hound, or his naturally good name, in the region of the Ozarks? Dog lovers in many states would be obliged to Champ Clark for light on this puzzling feature of the "houn' dawg" song.

Dedicated to March.

We are indebted to Charlie Dickens for the following receipt for catching one's hat on a windy March day: There are a few moments in a man's existence when he experiences so much ludicrous distress, or meets with so little charitable commiseration, as when he is in pursuit of his own hat. A vast deal of coolness, and a peculiar degree of judgment are requisite in catching a hat. A man must not be precipitate, or he runs over it; he must not rush into the opposite extreme or he loses it altogether. The best way is, to keep gently up with the object of pursuit, to be wary and cautious, to watch your opportunity well, get gradually before it, then make a rapid dive, seize it by the crown, and stick it firmly on your head; smiling pleasantly all the time as if you thought it as good a joke as anybody else."

BENCH WARRANTS ON INDICTMENTS

Issued by Judge Blair Today But no Arrests Are Made by Sheriff Beabout.

WALKER BROTHERS IN COURT

Bench warrants were issued this afternoon on a part of the indictments returned by the grand jury Saturday evening. Sheriff Clata Beabout went to Indianapolis at one o'clock and no arrests had been made up until a late hour today.

Two brothers, Orrin E. and Berne M. Walker of Union township were in circuit court today. The suit for a receiver and an accounting brought by the former was heard by Judge Blair. The plaintiff is principal of the Glenwood schools. He and his brother entered into a partnership to operate a farm and had trouble, the suit on today being only one of the many legal proceedings instituted by the brothers against each other since the dispute arose.

Judge Blair Saturday dissolved the Young Men's Commercial club, a corporation formed a few years ago by several local young business men. The petition for dissolution was filed a short time ago.

RICHMOND SAID TO BE CHAMPION

Board of Contest Hold That Way,
But Shelbyville Has Best Standing in District League.

LATTER WINS ONE MORE GAME

So far as the games to date are concerned, Shelbyville is the champion of the Sixth district basketball league. It was declared at a meeting of the board of control of the Indiana High School Athletic Association in Indianapolis Saturday, according to the Indianapolis Star, that Richmond is the winner. According to the present standing Shelbyville has won five games and lost one and Richmond has won the same number and lost two. Richmond lost to Shelbyville and Newcastle and Shelbyville lost to Richmond alone.

But there are some more games on the schedule yet to be played. Connersville and Rushville play here next Saturday night, but this will not affect the leaders. Shelbyville never has played Rushville but one game and has never played Connersville at all. It is possible the board of control decided this was against Shelbyville.

The winners in the thirteen districts were divided into groups of four, according to location, and will play Saturday. The Sixth district champion will play at Indianapolis. The finals of the State championship will be played at Indiana University Saturday, March 16.

The funeral services of Mrs. Martha A. Willey, aged 84 years and 5 months, who died at her home in Blue Ridge Saturday afternoon, were held at the late residence this morning at ten o'clock, the Rev. Loren Tillson officiating. Burial was made in the McCarty cemetery in Orange township.

Mrs. Willey had been sick six months with dropsy. She was one of the most respected ladies of her community and her many friends will be saddened to hear of her death. She had suffered intensely during her illness and she realized a few weeks ago that she would soon have to leave for the better home in the great beyond.

Mrs. Willey leaves to mourn her death one sister, Mrs. Mary C. Inlow of Blue Ridge and two nephews, Pliny Hungerford and Dr. G. I. Inlow of Blue Ridge. Her husband predeceased her to the grave five years ago.

A. L. Stewart was called to Louisville, Ky., today on account of the serious illness of his sister, Mrs. Fannie Nash. Mrs. Nash is in a critical condition and is not expected to live.

CHAPTER II.

The Game Played in the Usual Way.

The road on which they advanced into the mountains was well made and well kept up. The canon through the foothills was not very deep—for Colorado—and the ascent was gentle.

Naturally it wound in every direction, following the devious course of the river, which it frequently crossed from one side to the other on rude log bridges. A brisk gallop of half a mile or so on a convenient stretch of comparatively level going put the two in the lead far ahead of the lumbering wagon and out of sight of those others of the party who had elected to go a horseback. There was perhaps a tacit agreement among the latter not to break in upon this growing friendship, or, more frankly, not to interfere in a developing love affair.

The canon broadened here and there at long intervals and ranch houses were found in every clearing, but these were few and far between and for the most part Armstrong and Enid Maitland rode practically alone save for the passage of an occasional lumber wagon.

"You can't think," began the man, as they drew rein after a splendid gallop and the somewhat tired horses readily subsided into a walk, "how I hate to go back and leave you."

"And you can't think how loath I am to have you return," the girl flashed out at him with a sidelong glance from her bright blue eyes and a witching smile from her scarlet lips.

"Enid Maitland," said the man, "you know I just worship you. I'd like to sweep you out of your saddle, lift you to the bow of mine and ride away with you. I can't keep my hands off you—I—"

Before she realized what he would do about it swerved his horse toward her, his arm went around her suddenly. Taken completely off her guard she could make no resistance, indeed she scarcely knew what to expect until he crushed her to him and kissed her, almost roughly, full on the lips.

"How dare you," cried the girl, her face aflame, freeing herself at last, and swinging her own horse almost to the edge of the road which here ran on an excavation some fifty feet above the river.

"How dare I?" laughed the audacious man, apparently no whit abashed by her indignation. "When I think of my opportunity I am amazed at my moderation."

"Your opportunity; your moderation."

"Yes, when I had you helpless I took but one kiss; I might have held you longer and taken a hundred."

"And by what right did you take that one?" haughtily demanded the outraged young woman, looking at him beneath level brows while the color slowly receded from her face. She had never been kissed by a man other than a blood relation in her life—remember, suspicious reader, that she was from Philadelphia—and she resented this sudden and unauthorized caress with every atom and instinct of her still somewhat conventional being.

"But aren't you half way engaged to me?" he pleaded in justification, seeing the unwonted seriousness with which she had received his impudent advance. "Didn't you agree to give me a chance?"

"I did say that I liked you very much," she admitted, "no man better, and that I thought that you might—"

"Well, then—" he began.

But she would not be interrupted.

"I did not mean that you should enjoy all the privileges of a conquest before you had won me. I will thank you not to do that again, sir."

"It seems to have had a very different effect upon you than it does upon me," replied the man coolly. "I loved you before, but now, since I have kissed you, I worship you."

"It hasn't affected me that way," retorted the girl promptly, her face still frowning and indignant. "Not at all, and—"

"Forgive me, Enid," pleaded the other. "I just couldn't help it. You were so beautiful I had to. I took the chance. You are not accustomed to our ways."

"Is this your habit in your love affairs?" asked the girl swiftly and without a spic of feminine malice.

"I never had any love affair before," he replied with a ready masculine mordacity, "at least none worth mentioning. But you see this is the west; we have gained what we have by demanding every inch that nature offers, and then claiming the all. That's the way we play the game out here and that's the way we win."

"But I have not yet learned to play the 'game' as you call it, by any such rules," returned the young woman determinedly, "and it is not the way to win me if I am the stake."

"What is the way?" asked the man anxiously. "Show me and I'll take it no matter what its difficulty."

"Ah, for me to point out the way

MOTHER WAS WORRIED

Because Young Daughter Coughed so Much—What She Did.

Just think how anxious Mrs. William Archer, of Long Branch, N. J., must have been about her 14-year-old daughter. She says: "She was very thin, had a bad cough, was nervous and did not sleep well. Vinol has helped her wonderfully. She can sleep all night now without coughing once, in fact her cough is gone. Her appetite is greatly improved and she has gained weight. I wish every mother knew what Vinol will do for delicate children."

Nothing can possibly be more important than the health of children and that is why we earnestly advise the use of Vinol in all cases where a child is weak, pale, run down, has a cough, or poor appetite. We have seen it make so many children strong and rosy that we believe in it.

Children take Vinol eagerly because it tastes good and it puts new strength into their little bodies. We guarantee Vinol to give perfect satisfaction and give back your money if it does not. F. B. Johnson & Co., Druggists, Rushville, Ind.

back. I'll wait for your Denver, and then—"

"That's best," answered the girl. She stretched out her hand to him, leaning backward. If he had been a different kind of a man he would have kissed it; as it was he took it in his own hand and almost crushed it with a fierce grip.

"We'll shake on that, little girl," he said, and then without a backward glance he put spurs to his horse and galloped furiously down the road.

No, she decided then and there, she did not love him, not yet. Whether she ever would she could not tell. And yet she was half bound to him. The recollection of his kiss was not altogether a pleasant memory; he had not done himself any good by that bold assault upon her modesty, that reckless attempt to rifle the treasure of her lips. No man had ever really touched her heart, although many had engaged her interest. Her experience therefore was not definitive or conclusive. If she had truly loved James Armstrong, in spite of all that she might have said, she would have thrived to the remembrance of that

AVOID HARSH DRUGS

Many Cathartics Tend to Cause Injury to the Bowels.

If you are subject to constipation, you should avoid strong drugs and cathartics. They only give temporary relief and their reaction is harmful and sometimes more annoying than constipation. They in no way effect a cure and their tendency is to weaken the already weak organs with which they come in contact.

We honestly believe that we have the best constipation treatment ever devised. Our faith in it is so strong that we sell it on the positive guarantee that it shall not cost the user a cent if it does not give entire satisfaction if it does not give entire satisfaction and completely remedy constipation. This preparation is called Rexall Orderlies. These are prompt, soothing, and most effective in action. They are made of a recent chemical discovery. Their principal ingredient is odorless, tasteless, and colorless. Combined with other well-known ingredients, long established for their usefulness in the treatment of constipation, it forms a tablet which is eaten just like candy. They may be taken at any time, either day or night, without fear of their causing any inconvenience whatever. They do not gripe, purge, nor cause nausea. They act without causing any pain or excessive looseness of the bowels. They are ideal for children, weak, delicate persons, and aged people, as well as for the most hearty person.

"I like to hear you say things like that," she answered. "Nobody quite like you has ever made love to me, and certainly not in your way, and that's the reason I have given you a half way promise to think about it. I was sorry that you could not be with us on this adventure, but now I am rather glad, especially if the even temper of my way is to be interrupted by anything like the outburst of a few minutes since."

"I am glad, too," admitted the man. "For I declare I couldn't help it. You were so beautiful I had to. I took the chance. You are not accustomed to our ways."

"Is this your habit in your love affairs?" asked the girl swiftly and without a spic of feminine malice.

"I never had any love affair before," he replied with a ready masculine mordacity, "at least none worth mentioning. But you see this is the west; we have gained what we have by demanding every inch that nature offers, and then claiming the all. That's the way we play the game out here and that's the way we win."

wild care. The chances, therefore, were somewhat heavily against him that morning as he rode down the trail alone.

His experiences in love affairs were much greater than hers. She was by no means the first woman he had kissed—remember, suspicious reader, that he was not from Philadelphia—hers were not the first ears into which he had poured passionate protestations. He was neither better nor worse than most men, perhaps he fairly enough represented the average; but surely fate had something better in store for such a superb woman. A girl of such attainments and such infinite possibilities, she must mate higher than with the average man. Perhaps there was a subconsciousness of this in her mind as she silently waited to be overtaken by the rest of the party.

He Crushed Her to Him and Kissed Her.

There were curious glances and strange speculations in that little company as they saw her sitting her horse alone. A few moments before James Armstrong had passed them at a gallop, he had waved his hand as he dashed by and had smiled at them, hope giving him a certain assurance, although his confidence was scarcely warranted by the facts.

His demeanor was not in consonance with Enid's somewhat grave and somewhat troubled present aspect. She threw off her preoccupation instantly and easily, however, and joined readily enough in the merry conversation of the way.

Mr. Robert Maitland, as Armstrong has said, had known him from a boy. There were things in his career of which Maitland did not and could not approve, but they were of the past, he reflected, and Armstrong was after all a pretty good sort. Mr. Maitland's standards were not at all those of his Philadelphia brother, but they were very high. His experiences of men had been different; he thought that Armstrong, having certainly by this time reached years of discretion, could be safely entrusted with the precious treasure of the young girl who had been committed to his care, and for whom his affection grew as his knowledge of and acquaintanceship with her increased.

As for Mrs. Maitland and the two girls and the youngster, they were Armstrong's devoted friends. They knew nothing about his past, indeed there were things in it of which Maitland himself was ignorant, and which had they been known to him might have caused him to withhold even his tentative acquiescence in the possibilities.

Most of these things were known to old Kirkby, who with masterly skill, amusing nonchalance and amazing profanity, albeit most of it under his breath lest he shock the ladies, tooted along the four nervous, excited bronchos that drew the big supply wagon. Kirkby was Maitland's oldest and most valued friend. He had been the latter's deputy sheriff, he had been a cowboy and a lumberman, a mighty hunter and a successful miner, and now, although he had acquired a reasonable competence, and had a nice little wife and a pleasant home in the mountain village at the entrance to the canon, he drove stage for pleasure rather than for profit. He had given over his daily twenty-five-mile jaunt from Morrison to Troutdale to other hands for a short space that he might spend a little time with his old friend and the family who were all greatly attached to him on this outing.

Enid Maitland, a girl of a kind that Kirkby had never seen before, had won the old man's heart during the weeks spent on the Maitland ranch. He had grown fond of her, and he did not think that Mr. James Armstrong merited that which he evidently so overwhelmingly desired. Kirkby was well along in years, but he was quite capable of playing a man's game for all that, and he intended to play it in this instance.

Nobody scanned Enid Maitland's face more closely than he, sitting humped up on the front seat of the wagon, one foot on the high break, his head sunken almost to the level of his knee, his long whip in his hand, his keen and somewhat fierce brown eyes taking in every detail of what was going on about him. Indeed there was but little that came before him that Kirkby did not see.

WOULD COMBAT FOREST FIRES

State Board of Forestry Plans to Prevent Semi-Annual Loss by Educating Public.

SECRETARY SENDS BULLETIN

Road Supervisor is Legal Fire Warden in His District—Law Provides Heavy Fine.

Pleading for a campaign of education among road supervisors in Indiana, who are the legal fire wardens of the country districts, the State Board of Forestry has issued a bulletin warning Hoosiers against the coming spring season of forest cleaning, which annually entails a loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars in the state through forest fires.

A spring fire, started to clear out underbrush in a forest, has created more havoc in Indiana than thousands of the small fires in cities of the State, according to the belief of the state board. The bulletin declares that farmers should take the utmost care to reduce firing to a minimum wherever possible. The bulletin follows:

All of our towns and cities are well equipped for fighting fires, and as soon as an alarm is given everyone becomes interested in putting it out. But being well prepared for fighting fire, and by prompt action, the loss in a majority of cases is small and is usually fully covered by insurance.

Contrast this condition with our forest fires. In Indiana the township road supervisor is the legal fire warden, whose duty is, when he discovers a fire, to employ help to extinguish it. Are the road supervisors aware of their duty in this matter, and are they equipped for fighting a fire? Have they had any instruction as to how to control a forest fire? Is each district properly posted with "fire signs," which may be had free by writing to the State Board of Forestry?

The fact that the fighting forest fires are not good, makes it more necessary to exercise great care in their prevention. The spring forest cleaning will soon be here and the utmost care should be exerted to prevent the escape of fire. When a woods or meadow burns over, the loss is always greater than generally considered. When a fire goes through a forest it not only kills the young growth but the growth of the trees not directly injured by the fire is retarded for years, because the forest cover has been burned, which retains the moisture necessary for forest conditions. The loss in a forest fire is total because there is no insurance. However, if the loss sustained is caused by other than the owner of the property the state law provides: "That any person who shall set fire to any woods belonging to another or shall place a fire on his property and permit it to spread to the woods of another shall be liable to a fine of not less than $5.00 or more than $50 and be liable to the owner for the full damage sustained." If our fire law should be more rigidly enforced it would force people to be more careful and thus insure the safety of our forests.

* IN THE SCHOOL ROOM *
*****

"Rural school teachers are largely responsible for the depopulation of the country districts."

This declaration is made by Dr. Fred Mutchler and W. J. Craig, two members of the faculty of the Kentucky State Normal school, in a monograph which they have written for the United States Bureau of Education for general circulation. These two educators assert that rural school teachers set the faces of country boys and girls towards the city by idealizing city life.

The tendency of the rural schools to encourage emigration to the city, says the government publication is in consequence of the fact that the course of study in most rural schools is merely a copy of that given to the city school children, without reference to the different environment and local needs of the country child. As a result of giving the country child an education modeled on city lines, the authors declare that "teachers everywhere, with rare exceptions, have idealized city life, and unwittingly have been potent factors in inducing young men and women to the city."

"This movement often carries some of the best blood and brain of the community into the city, often to be lost, wasted or destroyed; certainly to be lost from the rural community. It is possible and right, indeed a duty, to dignify rural life and to save it and its interests the best blood of the country."

INDIANA TAKES

LEADS COUNTRY IN MOVEMENT

State Board of Health Initiates Movement Which Is Expected to Result in a Great Service to the People Along Hygienic Lines—Results Will Be Watched With Interest by Health Authorities Over the Country.

Indianapolis, March 4.—Under the supervision of Dr. W. F. King, assistant secretary of the board, the first state survey of tuberculosis conditions in Indiana, and the first in the United States, has been initiated by the Indiana state board of health. That it will result in a great service to the citizens of the state along hygienic lines is presaged by the complete manner in which it is intended to complete the survey.

Figures, compiled especially for the work by the attaches of the state board, are taken from the records of Indiana counties on the tuberculosis question for the last ten years, and the summary, while not completely analyzed, shows astounding results, the chief one being that the disease reached its highest point in death rate in the year 1904 and steadily decreased its annual harvest of lives in the state from that year to the close of 1911.

Since the state board began to keep tabulated statistics on disease conditions throughout the state, tuberculosis statistics have been watched closely, and the present resume of the ten-year period is a climax to the work of the board against the "white plague."

That the results of the present examination into the plague conditions in Indiana will be watched with intense interest by health authorities throughout the United States is assured. Preparations already are underway for an exhaustive analysis of the situation, based on the figures compiled by the board's attaches, and the beginning of a more comprehensive fight against the plague than ever before has been attempted.

MEANS A FIGHT

Bloomington Saloonists Will Contest
Recently Filed Remonstrance.

Bloomington, Ind., March 4.—That the saloon men of Bloomington are going to make a fight to keep the town from going dry under a remonstrance, filed by the temperance forces, which apparently has a majority of sixty-seven, was announced by a local brewery agent. He says that the liquor men have carefully examined the remonstrance, and they find that instead of there being a majority for the drys, the tide runs fifteen in favor of the wets.

He asserts that there are many alleged voters on the remonstrance who are nonresidents, which, with the withdrawals filed by the saloon men, makes a victory for the wets. The saloon men will put up a strong contest in the courts before they will surrender, and will insist that a remonstrance in a wet town is good only in individual cases, and then can be enforced only for violation of the liquor law.

Anxious About Seed Corn.

Morocco, Ind., March 4.—Many farmers in this vicinity assert that much of the seed corn gathered last fall will not grow. Numerous tests have been made recently, with the result that in not a few instances not more than half of the seed sprouted, and this is true, it is said, of seed that was gathered comparatively early. Already inquires for reliable seed corn are numerous.

Indiana's Oldest Resident Dead.

Wabash, Ind., March 4.—Henry Baker, Indiana's oldest resident, is dead
at his home here following a brief illness of pneumonia. Baker asserted that he was 108 years old, but the death certificate, which was issued by his daughter, Miss Elizabeth Baker, seventy years old, with whom he lived, gives his age as 111.

Caught at the Crossing.

Plainfield, Ind., March 4.—Ivan Bell, twenty-two years old, of near Six Springs, was perhaps fatally injured, and Miss Georgetta Wheeler sustained a broken leg and sprained back, when the buggy in which they were riding was struck by a Vandalia eastbound passenger train in this city.

Woman Burned to Death.

Terre Haute, Ind., March 4.—Intending to use coal oil in starting a fire, Mrs. Mary Benz picked up the wrong can, and the resulting gasoline explosion caused her death a few hours later. Her daughter Anna, eight years old, was seriously burned.

Held on Homicide Charge.

New York, March 4.—John Fennelly, a subway guard, was locked up charged with murdering his six-year-old daughter, after a fire in his apartment in a tenement house on Twenty-second street had caused her death. The story of his son Richard, nine years old, who says that the father came home drunk and threw a match carelessly on a chair, is what the police base their charge of homicide on.

Accused of Fatal Whipping.

Beara, Ky., March 5.—William Williams, a mail carrier, was arrested here and held without bail, charged with whipping his four-year-old son to death.
